

THE DAILY HERALD.

BATAVIA, Monday, July 18, 1859.
SUBSCRIPTION PRICE 5 CENTS PER WEEK.

TO CORRESPONDENTS:
No notice can be taken of anonymous communications. Whatever is intended for insertion must be authenticated by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of his good faith. We also beg to inform our readers that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our correspondents.

What of the Harvest?

The crops this year are a standard topic among all classes, about as much so as the weather. The promise that the European war would create a demand for bread stuffs, at large prices, at first stimulated interest in the yield over and above the requirement for home consumption. Then came the frost, which through the industry of speculators, was made the exciting cause of a regular panic, and fear actually spread that we were to be visited by a famine. A few days ago there was much complaint in this section of the drouth, but the recent rains have appeased alike the croakers and the earth.

The grass crop in Genesee Co., is unquestionably very light, and it is probably so in Erie Co. also, and perhaps some others. Wheat for a number of years has not promised so well as it does now; Corn is backward but with this weather it will come forward, and if frost holds off usually late, will be a good yield. Potatoes look remarkably well; of the other staple products we have not very definite information. At one time there was a cry that all the fruits were killed, but we have never known a season that promised a more abundant harvest of apples and pears than this cherries, even, a fruit that is more frequently blighted by unseasonable weather than almost any other, are very abundant and remarkably fine.

From distant parts of the country we hear still of injury by frost, but in some places, it is calculated that it saved the grass and grain harvest in killing off grasshoppers that had begun their work of devastation before the 4th of June. On the whole we have every reason to think that the husbandman had never a better prospect of an abundant reward for his labour, while the non-producing classes have the cheering encouragement that provisions will be abundant at prices commensurate with the price of labor.

Arrival of the Weeser.

The North German Lloyd's screw-steamship Weeser, which was to have sailed from Southampton on the 30th ult, but which was detained by an accident to her propeller, left that port on the 4th inst, and arrived in New York at a late hour Saturday night, making the passage in about eleven days and a half. The advice is two days later than those by the Canada, and embodies a telegraphic summary of events at the seat of war subsequent to the battle of Solferino. There had been no more fighting, and no movement of special importance seems to have been made on either side. The most noticeable feature of the news is the French official report of the engagement of the 24th ult, which we find in the London papers of the 4th inst. There is no change to notice in the English markets. Consols, on the day of the Weeser's sailing, were quoted at 93½. A rumor prevailed in London, and was telegraphed to Southampton, that the American clipper ship Dreadnought had been spoken off the coast, having crossed the Atlantic in the extraordinary time of nine days.

The coroner's jury in the case of the Michigan Southern Railroad Disaster, have completed their investigation and rendered their verdict. It fully exonerates the company from all blame; finds that while the embankment and culvert were very thoroughly and substantially built, and of sufficient capacity for all the water that has been accustomed to run there, or has been there for twenty years past, yet it would have had to be at least double its size for such an unprecedented flood as this was. They say the train was run with great care and caution, and the devotion as well as confidence of the men in the safety of the culvert is proved by their being found dead at their posts.

For the Daily Herald.
Daniel E. Sickles.
It is but a few days since the announcement came through the New York Press that Daniel E. Sickles had become reconciled to his wife. There are few newspapers in the land but what have already copied the paragraph; and few of those that have commented on this little domestic event but what have condemned the man, and predicted his political ruin—predicted, that this man of the world, because he has exhibited soul and manhood enough to forgive his erring wife, should lose his influence, lose his place in society, and in short, become an outcast.

The noblest act in the life of Daniel E. Sickles, was that when he took back and forgave the young wife that had strayed from his arms—when he said to her "though the world condemns thee I will not," and said to the world, "though you have acquitted me of crime when my hands have been stained with blood, and will condemn me now when I am merciful, yet will I brave thy condemnation for my own peace, and the happiness of mine."

There is something like heroism on the part of Sickles in this truly noble act, for he braves a public sentiment that will try to crush him out—acts contrary to popular clamour in the full consciousness that he is doing right, and defies that unrighteous judgment of mankind which condemns the weak in error, and applauds the strong in vice.

Mr. Sickles may not have studied the moral points of the act that redeems him measurably with the christian, while it incurs the animadversion of the politician, but it shows that his heart is in about the right place, and if once the good of his nature gets the control of him, he will rise above the fame of a corrupt politician.

The true lesson taught in the Sickles tragedy of last winter has evidently found one learner in the principle actor. Neither political fame, nor the fascination of a fashionable life are contributors to happiness, they are not either, essential to ultimate good, and hence good cannot grow out of them.

We glory in the man that dares the right to do, in the face of the world, and we esteem him the christian who lives the christ doctrine, rather than him who professes christianity and doeth not the works. Who ever condemns Sickles in forgiving his wife can claim no respect for Christ or His doctrine.

Miscellany.

—The inhabitants of the Pike's Peak region not finding gold enough to keep them busy picking it up, have already projected the formation of a new state.

—The Danville Register has discovered a gentleman who sponges the reading of that paper. We haven't any such here!

—The weather is warm just about here, and we presume it extends. We saw a native yesterday who complained of a want of courage and strength; we have seen one to-day who at an early hour was discouraged; another who in the most unqualified manner declared, "it is hot!" and we are inclined, without over-much confidence in human judgment, to think he was right.

—GREAT SAYS, "the Rocky Mountains with their grand aromatic forests, their grassy glades, their frequent springs and their dancing streams of the brightest, sweetest water, their pure, elastic atmosphere, and their unequalled game and fish, are destined to be a favorite resort and home of civilized man. I never visited a region where physical life could be more surely prolonged or fully enjoyed."

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—The morning train on the Buffalo and Lake Huron Railway, Saturday ran over a negro about three miles west of Dunville. The negro was walking on the track, and carrying a cask of flour. The locomotive cut his head completely off and both his legs.

The late Mr. Rufus Choate had policies upon his life with several companies, among them $10,000 in the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, of which institution he was one of the earliest members. He was remarkably punctual in paying his premiums, and never had occasion to be informed that his policy had expired.

TRAGEDY—A KENTUCKY DEPRIVADO HUNG BY A MON.—The Louisville Democrat has the following:
—In May last, Jasper Rouzy shot James Oldham in Milledgeville, Lincoln County, and immediately fled. He located himself in a remote corner of Marion County, and although the Executive of the State offered a reward of $400 for his apprehension, every one was fearful of attempting to make the arrest—such was his desperate character, and so thoroughly was he armed. While in Marion he was accustomed to committing depredation after depredation, of the most serious nature. He would go to the house of persons and demand their guns, threatening to blow out their brains in case of refusal, so that he was enabled to form quite an arsenal. On last Monday he went to Bradfordville, and encountering a gentleman, he seized his gold watch, and placing it in his pocket said, "What will you do about it?" Just at this juncture a small man seized him from behind pinioned his arms so closely that a number of persons were enabled to come up and assist in handcuffing the prisoner. He was then taken to Lebanon. When leaving the latter place he expressed a desire to be killed there, as he was sure if he returned to Stanford he would be hung.

Arriving at Stanford, the county seat of Lincoln, he was placed in jail. Yesterday (Saturday) morning, about 2 o'clock, a mob of some eight persons attacked the prison, made a forcible entrance, and carried off the prisoner. They proceeded a short distance, and then informed Rouzy of their intention. He only requested that his body should be given to his wife, and that it remain in peace, as he trusted his soul would. The mob then hung him upon a tree, and left the wretched man suspended. He was not discovered until after daylight.

Rouzy had for a long time been a vicious, ungovernable person, and was a perfect terror to the neighborhoods of Milledgeville and Huntsville.

POISONOUS HOOPS.—The Cayuga (C. W.) Sachem says that a couple of women in the backwoods of that county, wishing to conform to the prevailing fashion, and being economically inclined withal, started for the forest to procure hoop timber, and after due investigation and consideration, they came to the conclusion that the stem of the "poison ivy" would answer their purpose better than anything else, and therefore proceeded to appropriate as much of it as they deemed necessary, little dreaming of the consequences of the rash act. In a very few days thereafter these would be fashionable found that they had not only enlarged their spheres of action, but that they had badly poisoned themselves. The services of a physician were in requisition at last accounts.

STEALING CATTLE.—Some rascal last week stole five fat cattle from Thomas Kibby, who has a farm near Akron, brought them in this vicinity, sold four of them to Mr. Clute of Black Rock, who butchered them, and lost the other one. Officer Sherwood arrested the man who had sold them to CLUTE, but he insisted that he had bought them from an Indian, and the officer has gone in pursuit of the aborigine, who we fear, is rather a mythical Mohican, Seneca, or Red Jacket. The Indian had not been found at last accounts—and according to our accounts, never will be.—Buffalo Republic.

ANOTHER PIQUE.—The people at the eastern base of the Rocky Mountains have taken a step towards greatness. They have had a meeting and issued an address calling a convention of the people to form a new territory or state, by taking parts of Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico, and Utah. It is proposed to call the State Jefferson. There is room and range enough in that direction to form empires.

Advice from Puerto Caballo to July 1 announce the existence of a formidable insurrection of negroes in the vicinity of that city, which has entirely suspended communication between the town and country. The insurgents are guilty, it is reported, of every species of atrocity, and are strong enough to defy the troops sent to subdue them.

The Lancaster (Pa.) Union says the largest harvest ever secured in that county is now being gathered.

Easily Annoyed

JOE FENTLAND'S Show Bills being larger than ordinary village barns, he is obliged to erect a Monster Bulletin board in order to display them. The one down by the Eagle, while undergoing the artistic process of decoration with pictures of monstrous men and small ponies, and re-vaulting chaps suspending and projecting in every conceivable attitude,—greatly to the amusement and entertainment of the village urchins,—produced a very unhappy effect upon one of our executive citizens, who proceeded immediately to order the work discontinued. The agent appealed to the President of the board of Trustees, who "not standing in the fear of the Lord," according to the words of JOSEPH, at once and in the most emphatic manner renewed the permit that Joe Fentland's bills should be displayed before the citizens of Batavia, greatly to the indignation of the opposing authority, and much to the delight of the urchins.

For this defence of the Showman's rights our worthy village President will hereafter receive the gratitude of the "younger members of society," who are notoriously fond of the Circus and of fun.

The Batavia Brass Band.

Our citizens while sitting out in the shade—of the evening—on Saturday night, wooing the cool night air, were agreeably entertained with music from the Brass Band, recently organized in this place. It is but a few months since this band commenced practicing, but it has made great proficiency, and already discourses music, which, when it comes floating on the soft air mingled with the moonbeams of a night like that of Saturday last, is mellowed to the tone of the gentlest heart.

We understand that liberal contributions have been made by a number of our citizens to furnish a complete fit-out for the members of this Band, and we hope soon to see them in regalia making merry music for the delight of all.

It is hoped that all who are fond of music will add contributions to those already made for the furtherance of the object above stated.

University of Rochester.

We see by the Rochester papers that at the recent commencement in that city, A. B. RATHBUN and J. A. MACOMBER, both of this county, were among the graduates. We hear from those who attended the commencement, that the address of these young men were creditable to themselves, and reflected honor on old Genesee.

Mr. MACOMBER, who has been very fortunate in college honors, has been elected to deliver the oration before his class at their reunion five years hence—certainly the highest compliment which could be paid to his talent as a writer and speaker.

We are glad to know that "our boys" have done so well in the University in which, from its location, we take so deep an interest. The growth of this college is unparalleled. Half a century is a short time for a college to make a reputation but this one, in less than ten years, has attained a rank along side our oldest and best. The graduating class this year numbered twenty seven, taken from all parts of the Union, and four were from the Queen's Dominion.

New Law Firm.—J. M. Willett, Esq., and M. H. Peck, Esq., have entered into copartnership for the practice of law.—Their office is in the old American, cor. Main and Mechanic st's.

Cherries.—The basket of cherries which we received from the Park Place Saloon, were of the very finest quality, and our thanks are due to the Proprietor, B. G. THORPE, Esq., for the same.

Latest News. BY TELEGRAPH.

TWO DAYS LATER NEWS.

Arrival of the Steamship 'Indian.'

FARTHER POINT, C. E., July 17. — The steamship Indian, from Liverpool at about noon of the 8th instant, passed the station at 3 P. M. to-day and will be due at Quebec at 6 P. M. to-morrow.

The following telegraph show the course of events:—

A private despatch from the French headquarters, dated the 3d, says:—"This morning at 7 o'clock the Emperor quitted Volta in order to cross the Mincio and establish his headquarters at Vallegio.

We are only four leagues from Peschiera—the siege of which was begun two days ago by the Sardinians. Cannons were heard night and day in that direction.—The Austrian advance post is but a short distance from Villafrauca, which is occupied by the corps of General Neill.

"It is much doubted that the Austrian army will venture to accept a battle in the state of demoralization and stupor into which they have fallen since our victory at Solferino."

NALLIO, July 4. Official.—The French army, increased by Prince Napoleon's corps will operate against Verona, whilst part of the Sardinians begin the siege of Peschiera.

The Emperor having sent back the wounded officers without exchange, and having requested an exchange of prisoners, an Austrian has arrived with the announcement that the Emperor of Austria will also send back without exchange the wounded prisoners of the allies, and that His Majesty is equally desirous for the exchange of others.

TURIN, July 4.

Official.—On the 29th ult. the Sardinians closely invested the exterior fortification of Peschiera Sotutio, on the right bank of the Mincio.

Our army crossed the river on the 30th, to invest Peschiera also on the left bank.

BRESCIA, July 3.

The Austrians have withdrawn from Bormio.

The Piedmontese are advancing towards the Stelvio Pass.

A report was current at Castiglione that the Austrians had entered into Verona. The Herald's Turin correspondent says that 20,000 beds had been ordered down from Milan from Brescia, and 10,000 from Turin.

There were great complaints of the scarcity of provisions in the villages occupied by the allies.

On the 7th there was an extraordinary sitting of the Federal Diet of Frankfurt, when Prussia presented new and farther proposals respecting the establishment, extension and command of the corps of observation on the Rhine. Immediately after the sitting M. De Wieden left for Berlin. Prussia, it is said, has given tranquilizing assurances to the French Government.

A Berlin correspondent of the Times says that the Prussian proposals were in the hands of Russia and England. The writer says that by the end of the week the Prussian army will be in full march.—Two corps d'armes will be stationed on the Silesian frontier in case of an unexpected attack on the part of Russia. On the lower and middle Rhine 140,000 Prussians will be stationed. When these preparations are completed, Prussia will probably make her proposals to France, and this unquestionably will be refused.

The same correspondent gives an outline of the proposition, which includes the erection of Venice into a separate kingdom, with the Archduke Maximilian as King.

PHYSICIANS USE THEM.

Dr. C. T. Herrick, of Baltimore, M. D., a note to Dr. Herrick, says: I have tested your purgative Sugar Coated Pills in a variety of diseases, and find them superior to any cathartic I ever used. My customers, particularly the female portion, have fallen in love with them, and frequently ask me to give them the Sugar Coated Pill. Your discovery in coating a pill with sugar should immortalize your name, and I doubt not your invention will be handed down to future posterity as a discovery worthy the day in which we live. Please accept my thanks for the cure of pills which reached me this morning by express. Enclosed find the amount of your bill. Sold everywhere.

Sold by all the dealers in Batavia, and by Druggists in every City, Town and Village in the United States. They have been established TWENTY YEARS—have saved thousands from THE GRAVE—and their work of MERCY is not half completed. Try them. They are warranted.

Sold by all the Dealers in Batavia, and by merchants everywhere.
